Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1- 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Recent interpretations of the PTO Notice regarding statutory subject matter published in the Official Gazette 11/22/05 have suggested that the production of an abstract value including a visual output of an abstract value such as a displacement or a strain does not constitute a tangible result in the sense of a practicalization or practical application such as a control or evaluation or diagnosis of a condition by a user, whether the claims be presented in apparatus or method form. Here there is no change wrought in a material or thing since (useful) non-destructive testing is being practiced, so the statutory consideration proceeds to consideration of whether a concrete and tangible result is achieved by the claimed subject matter. In this regard, all claims are currently left in a numericization stage or display of this stage.

This action is NOT made final however the case should be prepared for final action.
